

Modular Advantage

When space is a concern, Cospolich modular units are the solution. There is no need to compromise size or quality because of tight building access doorways, elevators, and/or hallways. In particular, for marine installations (where hatches are always too small to accommodate the entry of a large refrigerator), Cospolich has the correct unit.

Modular units are shipped assembled to your site. The cabinet can then be disassembled, carried into the desired location and reassembled using basic tools, which are furnished with the unit. Written instruction and instructional videos are also furnished.

The unit and all wiring literally slide together with positive locking hardware. A Cospolich Modular Refrigerator is not a compromise in quality or construction. These units are manufactured in our facility, to our demanding specifications.
